Transactions in detail in the market yesterday were as follows: at their face value, they are considered significant as reflecting a greatly improved sentiment in the Street. The next sale of a seat is awaited with particular interest. An advance in price from the last point would undoubtedly convince a number of people that the trend in the price of Stock Exchange seats had indeed turned upward. 31. Comment on the last jump in price included the objection that the previous low price, that of $41,000, was brought about by a o's forced sale

The Tariff Stocks.

The action of the so-called tariff sic : 15-16 : 15-16 was closely watched for a clue to the light new tariff bill, and because there was litt! evidence on the part of the holders of this group to do anything at all as yet the traders said that the new tariff schedules were bullish. Beet Sugar opened 3 points of at 33, subsequently sold as low as 323,, and closed at 33'. Another stock to betray sensitiveness to tariff developments was International Paper, which declined to 43. There was no sale of American Woolen common during the day, and the pre-ferred on a trade of 100 shares was in-changed. National Lead preferred was up 2 points, and the shares of the inde-pendent steel companies and of the Steel Corporation itself followed the lead of the general market. The Bethlehem Stee 11-16 | stocks, which might have been expected 988, to make some kind of a response, in view of President Schwab's memorable ex pressions of opinion as regards tariff re-duction in the trade, declined is of a point

New street is extramely bullish on Readn the put 'n call market. The demand for portions that those who are willing to write paper have raised their price sharply for the accommodation. The best offer that was made yesterday for a call on Reading for thirty days was 4° points up at $225 Ordinarily the market would probably be something like 3 or 3° points up at $125. The prevailing argument in the put and call to receive the prevailing argument in the put and call to be a legal one according to the constant of the southern Pacific which entities every holder of one share of stock in the road to a vote and silpulates that the holders of a majority in interest exists it is safe to say that the speculative element will focus its. the risk of selling calls.

Buying to Replace Bridges Damaged Sales by Recent Floods Starts.

Several large orders for structural steel and other material for bridges for the earliest possible delivery have been placed by railroads with steel companies during the last few days. These orders are for bridges to replace those destroyed or damaged beyond repair by the recent floods. It is expected that steel orders resulting from damage to railroad property alone will total around $10,000,000. With the present active demand for structural material for building work, with these new orders in sight or already placed, there is title probability that the present congestion at the fabricating mills will be relieved much before the end of the year.

The steel trade is intensely interested in the new tariff bill now before Congress as it effects steel and iron, and the proposed reductions are expected to mean that lower steel prices will follow soon after them, orders until the time they expect that such reductions in price will be made. However, with the present buge volume of business on the books of steel generating. will have to be placed before the end of the year because of the argency of consumers' needs, it is thought probable that no weaken-15012 ing in prices of note will be seen before 1011. Steel conditions in Germany are of especial interest at present, for German competition is more feared, with lower tariff, than of any other country. Regarding 114's | conditions there the Iron Age correspondent market is awaiting the end of the European war complications, and that after a settle-ment is effected it is expected that a revival of activity in the general trade will follow
